INTRODUCTION
(by Reba Knapp Sliger)

The first seven generations of this Knapp family history has been researched and compiled by Dr. Alfred Averill Knapp who spent forty years with his work. His book published in the 60's has over 900 pages.

Dr. Knapp was an active member of the Knapp Family Association which met in New York and published their own family newsletter. This association and newsletter was disbanded during the 60's. The book and newsletter are available in the Ft. Wayne Library in the genealogy section.

The eighth generation of Knapps continue with the families of John R. Knapp. After missing gatherings for several years, the reunion was renewed in 2003. Members of the group have compiled much new information in an attempt to bring the history up to date. Most genealogists know that a history is never complete. So, hopefully, this history will be continue for future generations.

Thanks so much for all the family information that makes this volume successful.

Special thanks to Monita Bowers up-to-date information that was so helpful in cross referencing each family.

Kaye Lynn Foust Taylor submitted information of Charles Henry Knapp family, Dorothy Kurtz gave us the Eager branch information, Thalia Hart Reed's neat hand-written pages supplied Robert Basil Hart's family, Trudy Phipps supplied Junior Knapp's family, and Violet Brunkhart kept me up on addresses in her family.

The first volume was submitted at Knapp Family Reunion at the Harlan Park in 1976. This updated version is now submitted at the same location in June, 2009. Both volumes submitted by Reba Knapp Sliger.

Happy reading!!

INTRODUCTION

The name of Knapp has been found in England since the fifth century, in various forms of spelling. Oswald Greenways Knapp, the Knapp genealogist of England, found the name in more than ninety different forms of spelling, though no doubt all were variants of the modern name. It is claimed that it was of Saxon origin, though there is no proof of this. It is common in all Teutonic countries and it is just as probably of Anglican origin. The early spellings were usually with a "C" as Cnaep. Other forms were Cnepe, Knepe, Knopp, etc. In early times the name was often Preceded with "atte" and "de la." "atte" disappeared by about 1400. Originally it Was used as an individual name and died with its owner. After about 1200 it began to Be used as a family name and was transmitted from father to son. It is possible that The name originated from "cnaep" meaning a hilltop, or the English name "knob" Meaning the same. A man living on the hilltop, became known by that name. In America the name was usually spelled with one "p" until about the time of the Revolution.

In England there were no less than six or eight family names bearing the name of Knapp, but they lived in different parts of England and bore no relationships with one another, so far as Oswald Greenways Knapp could determine. He believed all were of independent origin.

The place of origin in England of the four New England immigrants is still not proved, though many statements to the contrary can be found. It is believed that William Knapp came from near Cornard Parva or Newton, County Suffolk or Essex. It is probable that Nicholas came from this same vicinity as the name has been found there. The name Nicholas Knapp was evidently not common in England, as O.G. Knapp could find records of only some twelve or fifteen persons bearing that name throughout all England and for all time. The names of Aaron and Roger occurred only three times each in all England.

There is no proof that William and Nicholas were brothers or even relatives though that statement is often found in print. When this conjecture was repeated often enough, it finally became accepted as a fact. Both men are supposed to have come to Watertown with the Winthrop and Saltonstall fleet in the summer of 1630, though both their names appear in court records earlier that same year. Records do not show that William and Nicholas had any dealings of any kind with one another. Whenever either was in difficulty, it was always a stranger who came to the rescue. He always signed with a mark much like this

Most of the early New England immigrants were dissenters from the Church of England, so their births, marriages, etc, are not recorded there, making it impossible to trace their origin accurately. In general, they were a religious people, though independent in thought, who took the Bible as their guide and rule in life. Usually church membership was a first requirement to qualify a person to vote, own property or become a Freeman in town.

Watertown, Massachusetts, was settle mainly by immigrants from Counties Suffold, Essex and Norfolk, England and the rest of Massachusetts settlers also came largely from the southeastern part of England. Most of the early settlers were Puritans or Independent Thinkers who migrated to escape persecution at home and to worship as they pleased in the New World. Some groups became very intolerant of people who differed in belief from their own group. Most early towns were founded by church groups migrating as a body, led by their pastor. Later, as conditions changed, settlers came for economic reasons, hoping to improve their financial standing in a new country where they could acquire and own property, especially land, and thus attain independence.

The pastor of the church at Watertown was the Reverend George Phillips, from Boxted, County Essex, who remained there about ten years. The church was organized on July 30, 1630, with some forty men, headed by Sir Richard Saltonstall, signing the membership list. This church remained the only church in the town for sixty-six years. only church members could become Freemen and vote.

Stamford, Connecticut, was settled in 1641 by people from Wethersfield, Connecticut who brought with them their church organization and pastor, the Reverend Richard Denton. He was from Yorkshire, England. This church was organized by seven religious men who the left England because of persecution due to their religious beliefs. They believed in the Bible as their only guide and law in living and were known as Congregationalists. It is probable that Nicholas Knapp lived in Wethersfield for a year or more between the time he left Watertown and settled in Stamford.

The legend that Roger de Knapp was Knighted by Henry VIII at a Tournament held in Suffolk in 1530 is wholly the product of some fanciful mind and has not the least foundation in fact, notwithstanding the number of times that it has been published and the number of people who would like to believe it. O. G. Knapp and his father, also, searched the English records carefully and corresponded with the officials of the College of Heraldry, all of who agreed that there was never a Coat of Arms granted to anyone by the name of Roger de Knapp nor was there any Tournament held at or near Suffolk in 1530. They could find no record of a Knapp by the name of Roger ever having been Knighted or living in Suffolk or Essex at any time. It is believed that the story first appeared in America and that in all probability it is the invention of some unscrupulous genealogist in England in an attempt to satisfy the ambition of an American client.

Some six or eight Coats of Arms have been granted in England to persons bearing the name of Knapp and are recorded there. So far as is known, all the male descendants of these grantees have died and the lines are now extinct. It is therefore believed that no person living either in England or America is legally entitled to use this emblem as a mark of Heraldry. In 1940 the Knapp Family Association of America adopted the Suffolk Coat of Arms as the emblem of the Association, but without the slightest thought that any of them is legally entitled to use it in Heraldry.

But it may be used by them as an emblem, for no one else is entitled to or can be harmed by its use in that way. The Suffolk Coat of Arms was first granted to Henry Knapp, of Hintlesham, Suffolk, and later to George Knapp, of Tuddenham and to Robert Knapp, of Needham, probably both descendants of the above Henry. The blade was first adorned with three bay leaves and was without a motto, but it has since been changed by its owners in many ways and at different times. The leaves were replaced y a laurel wreath and various mottoes have been used at different times by various persons. The arrangements of the figures and the position of the parts of the coat of Arms have been changed to suit the fancy of the bearer. The following mottoes have been used: (1) Spes Nostra Deus. (2) Fortier et Feliciter. (3) In Bello Ault in Pace. (4) En Dieu est Ma Conficane (5) Sans Dieu Sans Tout (6) Nun Quam Non Paratus. (7) In God My Trust (8) Aspiro. All these and many other changes were made according to the whim or fancy of the bearer and were not a part of the original grant. A copy of the Coat of Arms adopted by the Knapp Family Association of America appears as a frontspiece for this genealogy. It was made for us by our good friend, Winfield Scott Down, Litte. D., the managing editor of the American Historical Company, Inc., of New York.

Some persons have been inclined to believe that the original immigrant ancestor, Nicholas Knapp, is identical with the Nicholas Knapp who married Susan Mitterson, of Wells-by-the-Sea, but they have now discarded this theory. It is much more probable that he was descended from one of the two men named Nicholas Knapp who lived at Cornard Parva.

In the Appendix will be found a list of Knapps who served in the Revolutionary War, and other data of general interest.

FORWARD
(from book by A. A. Knapp, 1953)

This Genealogy of the Descendants of Nicholas Knapp, first found mentioned at Watertown, Massachussetts in 1630, if the result and research of many individuals. The four principal collectors were Charles Ruggles Knapp, Harry Eno Knapp, Ezra Fred Knapp and the author Alfred Averill Knapp, but they were assisted through correspondence by a large number of individuals who furnished much valuable family and local information.

Charles Ruggles Knapp was the pioneer in this work. He owned a hotel at Saratoga Springs, New York, so was occupied only a few months of each year. He devoted the remainder of the year to collecting data about the Knapp families of New York and New England from all available sources. He drove about the country searching town, church and cemetery records and calling upon individuals, thus laying the foundation for his work. He not only collected information concerning our four immigrant ancestors, WILLIAM, NICHOLAS, AARON AND ROGER KNAPP, but also that of a few other families by the name of Knapp who disappeared early or whose descendants he was unable to follow. His manuscript records, containing several thousand names, are deposited in Newberry Library, Chicago, Illinois, where they are available to the public.

He was followed by Henry Eno Knapp, a lumberman from Wisconsin, who had leisure and means to pursue his hobby of searching for family records. He was stimulated in this work by his acquaintance with Charles Ruggles Knapp but carried his research much farther. His records, containing nearly four thousand names, mostly traced back to Nicholas Knapp, are deposited in the Library of the Wisconsin State Historical Society, Madison, Wisconsin. Many of his records have been printed in a book entitled "A History of the Chief English Families Bearing the Name of Knapp" compiled by Oswald Greenwaye Knapp, M.A. of England, which may be found in many genealogical libraries.

Ezra Fred Knapp was a Principal of Schools at Syracuse, New York. He was interested in Knapp family history all his life and devoted his vacations mostly to research along that line. He traveled extensively and had a wide genealogical correspondence, thus increasing his recirded number of Knapps to nearly eight thousand names. His untimely death March 14, 1943 was a great loss.

The author, Alfred Averill Knapp, has been deeply interested in Knapp genealogy for more than forty years and has devoted all his spare time from a busy medical practice to collecting material. He worked personally with both Henry Eno Knapp and Ezra Fred Knapp and exchanged data with both. With Ezra Fred Knapp he kept duplicate card index sets of all records, so that is one set should be burned, another complete set would remain and not all the work would be lost. They dreamed and hoped for the time to come when all their work would be assembled in book form as a permanent record for future generations. They knew that extensive collections of records had been made and later lost for lack of publication and hoped that their work would not suffer a like fate.

In 1936 a small group of interested persons met in New York to organize the Knapp Family Association of America. Arrangements for the meeting were made by Mrs. Nellie Bird Vidavere, Mrs. Flora Knapp Dickison and Mr. And Mrs. Dickson Q. Brown. The activities of the Association have contributed greatly to this project. The bulletin of the Knapp Family Association, circulated among all the members and to nearly seventy five state and genealogical libraries aroused much favorable publicity and brought forth some two hundred family lineages. The annual meetings held in New York have attracted the attention of hundreds of Knapp descendants and promoted many close friendships.

At the death of Ezra Fred Knapp his records were combined with those of the author who then assumed the task of continuing the work and arranging for their permanent recording.

This book, containing the names and ancestry of nearly twelve thousand persons by the name of Knapp, along with several thousand names of related families, is the result. The families are fully traced back to our common ancestor as completely and as accurately as possible at the present time.

Winthrop Fleet

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

By early 1630, a fleet of 12 ships was ready to take roughly 1000 people to New England. The largest vessel, the 350-ton Ara-Bella , carried passengers, many heads of cattle, and provisions. Bad weather delayed the ship's departure several times; after several false starts, on April 7/10, 1630 the Arabella sailed into The open waters of the Atlantic.

Motivation

The Puritan population in England had been growing for many years leading up to this time. They disagreed with the practices of the Church of England, whose rituals they viewed as superstitions. An associated political movement attempted over many years to modify religious practice in England to conform to their views. King James wished to suppress this growing rebellious movement. Nevertheless, the Puritans eventually gained a majority in Parliament. James' son King Charles came into the greatest possible conflict with the Parliament, and viewed them as a threat to his authority, temporarily dissolving parliament in 1626, and again the next year, and finally dissolving parliament permanently in March 1629.[1] The King's actions gave large numbers of Puritans a sense of hopelessness regarding their future in that country, and many prepared to leave it permanently for life in New England.

Motivated by these political events, a wealthy group of leaders obtained a Royal Charter in March 1629 for a colony at Massachusetts Bay.[2]

A fleet of five ships departed within the month for New England that included approximately 300 colonists, led by Francis Higginson.[3] However, the colony leaders and the bulk of the colonists remained in England for the time being, to plan more thoroughly for the success of the new colony. Later that year, the group who remained in England elected John Winthrop to be Governor of the Fleet and the Colony. Over the ensuing winter, the leaders recruited a large group of Puritan families, representing all manner of skilled labor, to ensure a robust colony.

Voyage

The group departed Yarmouth, Isle of Wight on April 8.[4] Seven hundred men, women, and children were distributed among the ships of the fleet.[5] The voyage itself was rather uneventful, the direction

Ships

Winthrop's Journal gives lists the eleven ships that were in his fleet:

- Arbella: The flagship, designated 'Admiral' in the consortship; named for Lady Arbella, wife of Isaac Johnson (see below).
- Talbot: Designated 'Vice Admiral'.
- Ambrose: Designated 'Rear Admiral'.
- Jewel: Designated a 'Captain'.
- Mayflower: A different ship than that of the Pilgrims.
- Whale
- Success
- Charles.
- William and Francis.
- Hopewell.
- Trial.

Six other ships arrived at Massachusetts Bay in 1630, for a total of seventeen ships that year.[7]

*Just a note:
An Elizabeth Knapp's name was revealed in writings on the Salem Witch Trials. Accused of being a witch, and was to be burned at the stake. The article does not mention a trial, but she was escorted up the scaffold but was released. Stories differ as to he malady. Some believe she had not wheat for bread so resorted to using rye. If the rye was moldy, it creates a drug effect. Her children did not eat rye bread so were unaffected. Later accounts became clear that she suffered from epilepsy.

This incident is not mentioned in the book by A.A. Knapp. Reba Knapp Sliger visited Salem Witch Museum in 2006 and, indeed, Elizabeth's witchery incident was recorded in the history books there.

and speed of the wind being the main topic in Winthrop's Journal, as it affected how much progress was made each day. There were a few days of severe weather, and every day was cold. The children were cold and bored, and there is a description of a game played with a rope that helped with both problems. Many were sick during the voyage, but nearly all survived it. The group landed at Salem, Massachusetts on June 12 after nine weeks at sea. The passengers took up residence in Salem, Boston, and the nearby area.

During his voyage aboard the Arabella, Winthrop wrote his famous sermon, "A Model of Christian Charity," containing the often quoted phrase, "City upon a Hill." This phrase is used to this day to symbolize certain essential characteristics of the American spirit.

The Winthrop Fleet was a well planned and financed expedition that formed the nucleus of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. However they were not the first settlers of the area. There was an existing settlement at Salem, started in about 1626, populated by a few hundred Puritans, most of whom had arrived in 1629, and who were governed by John Endicott. Winthrop superseded Endicott as Governor of the Colony upon his arrival in 1630.[6]

The flow of Puritans to New England continued for another ten years, during a period known as the Great Migration.

The passengers originally settled in Salem.
After only a few weeks in Salem, Winthrop and his followers moved to the north side of the Charles River to what they called Charles Town. However, because of the scarcity of fresh water there, in September, they crossed the river again, this time establishing a new town which they named Boston.

Life in early Boston was brutal. In a September letter to his wife, Winthrop wrote of "much mortality, sickness, and trouble." Before the first year was out, 200 of the settlers had died. Yet Winthrop never gave up, "putting his hand to any ordinary labor," and trusting in God. He served as governor of the struggling colony for more than a decade and was active in government until his death in 1649, almost exactly 19 years to the day after his ship sailed out of English Waters.

KNAPP, NICHOLAS, had land here in 1649, as appears from the land records. His wife Eleanor, died august 16, 1658. Savage thinks he may have come in the fleet with Winthrop and Saltonstall in 1630. His children were Jonathan, born Dec. 27, 1631; Timothy, Dec. 14, 1632; Joshua, Jan. 5, 1635; Caleb Jan 20, 1637; Sarah, Jan 5, 1639; Ruth, Jan. 6, 1641; and Hannah, March 6, 1643. After coming to Stamford, he had probably Moses and Lydia. After the death of his wife, Eleanor, he married, March 9, 1659, Unity, widow of Peter Brown, who had also been the widow of Clement Buxton. He died in April 1670, and his will, now in the probate records of Fairfield, dated the 15th of that month, names the children in the following order: Moses, Timothy, Caleb, Sarah Disbrow, Hannah, Lidea, Ruth, and Sarah and Unica Buxton, daughters of Clement.

Knapp, Caleb, son probably of the above, had a son Caleb, born in 1661. His will bearing date 10,3, 1674 names his children: Caleb, John, Moses, Samuel, Sarah, and Hannah.

Knapp, Joshua, son of Nicholas, was married here in 1657 to Hannah Close. He had one child recorded here—Hannah, born March 26, 1660. He lived later in Greenwich, having had then seven children, Joshua, Joseph, Ruth, Timothy, Benjamin, Caleb, and Jonathan. His inventory bears date Oct. 27, 1684.

Huntington'a History of Stamford, Conn. Speaking of the Governor of Conn. says: "Side by side ready to the utmost of their means to sustain any measure which might aid them in asserting the rights of the Colonies against the unjust demands of the Crown, stood the substantial citizens of the town-the Hoyts—the Holly'- Lockwoods-the Knaps-the Scofields-the Smiths-the Seelys—the Warings-the Waterburys-the Webbs and the Weeds."

American Ancestry, Vol 8, p. 166, says: "Nicholas Knap was probably born at Bury St. Mary's, England." No proff. Originally the family perhaps came from Saxony, Germany.

The first Census of Mass. Taken in 1790 gives 39 names spelled "Knap" and 10 names spelled "Knapp" Savage's Geneaiogical Dictionary of New England Families says that in the first century in America, a single "p" was used in spelling the name Knap. Two other books state that before the Revolution, the name was usually spelled with one "p". In this book "Knapp" is uniformly used.

In 1939, Oswald Greenewaye Knapp, of England, author of "A History of the Chief English Familes Bearing the Name of Knapp" was asked to give us his latest conclusions concerning the English origins of our New England Knapp ancestors. He has this to say of Nicholas: "The Christian name of Nicholas was popular in the group of families found in Oxfordshire, Berkshire and Whitshire, from about 1520 onwards and to this group belong 16 of the 22 know instances of the name. But noe of these can be fairly identified with the emigrant Nicholas, all those of his period being otherwise accounted for. In the East Anglian group there is a Nicholas Knapp, of Wells next to the Sea, Co. Norfolk, who married there in 1618, Susan Mitterson and had issue—Robert, baptised 1619—Richard baptized 1621. Nicholas, baptised 1626 and two other children baptised in 1623 and 1628. I mention him because the late Henry Eno Knapp was strongly inclined to identify him with the immigrant. But if he was Nicholas of Watertown, it must be assumed that his wife died between 1628 and 1630, that he left behind him in England a family of 5 children, all under 12 years of age, married again in 1630, and began to raise a new family, whose names, instead of being English like those of his first famiy, were all drawn from the Bible. This to me seems most improbable. But a few years ago I found in the Suffolk Subsidy Roll of 1524, a Nicholas Knap of Newton, the earliest know member of the family to which William Knap belonged, who paid 1s.6d. tax on an assessment of three pounds in goods. This, of course, is not the emigrant but a great grandson or other descendant of the same name could fill the bill very well. There is no documentary evidence that such a person has ever been found, but this is by no means a fatal objectin to his existence, for the reason previously stated. Wills and other documents show that five generations of these Knopps foourished at Newton, Cornard, Parva and Middletown between 1524 and 1660. Yet, when I searched the Register of Newton in1902 from its commencement in 1558 to 1660, I found 1 baptism, 1 marriage and two burials. So it is evident that this family was one of those which did not often darken the Church doors, and many of its members must have escaped registration. But the name of the emigrant, Nicholas, may yet be found in some other local document relating to a law suit, a Court roll or a quarter Session Record."

Copied from the Hartford Times, Oct. 23, 1943, genealogical page, Query, A-2695: "Nicholas Knapp, Emigrant, died Stamford, Conn. Sept 16, 1670: his wife Elinor died there Aug. 16, 1658. The late Judge H. Stanley Finch, long Surrogate Judge at Stamford and a keen student of Lockwood, Finch and allied familes, gave his opinion that Elinor, wife of Nicholas Knapp, was dau. of Edmund Lockwood of Combs, Suffolk, England and sister of Edmund Lockwood, (1594-1635) of Cambridge, Mass. and of Robert Lockwood (1600-1658) of Watertown, Mass. and Fairfield, Conn. This seems probable, though documentary proof is lacking.

FIRST GENERATION

NICHOLAS KNAPP, our immigrant ancestor, parentage unknown was born c1606, and location unknown. He arrived in America in 1630 with the Winthrop and Saltonstill Expedition. Perhaps William, Nicholas, Aaron and Roger Knapp were brothers and arrived about the same time, but this has not yet been proven.

Nicholas and his first wife Elinor, departed Southampton, England to March 11, 1630 to Yarmouth, England and departed April 6, 1630 to Salem, MA, arriving there June 12 ande settled at Watertown, MA. They came to New England with the Winthrop/Saltonstall Expedition in 1630. As there is no known list of emigrants, who came in the Winthrop Fleet, so there is none of those who came in particular ships. Fortunately, for our purposes there exists a list of seventy names of those who came with the fleet; a rough list prepared by Winthrop. Among those entered is found the names of Nicholas and Elinor Knapp. Possibly aboard the ARBELLA.

Nicholas Knapp died 16 April at Fairfield Connecticut.
He married Elinor (c1606-1658) possibly in England c1630.

Elinor was first wife of Nicholas. She died 16 June or August, 1658 at Fairfield, Connecticut. Nicholas married the widow of Clement Buxton, Sr. within the year. Unica (Unity) Brown, widow of Peter Brown, married 9 March, 1659. She had been previously widow of Clement Buxton. Buxton was in Stamford, Connecticut in 1650 and died there 2 Aug. 1657. He had daughters Sarah and Unity and a son, Clement. His widow, Unity married 22 Hyktm 1658, Peter Brown of Stamford who died soon after. His widow for the 3rd time then married Nicholas Knapp as his 2nd wife. All their children born at Watertown, Massachusetts, except Lydia.

NICHOLAS KNAPP

Nicholas Knapp came to New England from England in 1630 with the Winthrop and Saltonstall Expedition and settled in Watertown, Mass. Possibly he was a brother of William Knapp who came at the same time but that relationship has never been proved nor disproved, though it has been repeatedly affirmed without proof. There is no record that they ever had any dealings with each other after their arrival but whenever one of them got into trouble, it was always another who came to their aid. That fact may not prove anything.

Bond's History of Watertown, Mass. Says: "1636, July 25, lands, grants and possessions. Nicholas Knapp – 30 acres. Second division, Feb 28, 1636, Nicholas Knapp was granted 6 acres. 1642, 3rd month 10th day Division of more land. Nicholas Knapp received one hundred seventeen acres. In 1639 Nicholas Knapp was owner of:

1. A Homestall of sixteen acres, more or less bounded on the southwest with William Barsham, on the northeast with Howard Browns, on the northwest with Robert Lockwood and the southeast with bank lane.

2. Two acres in Pine Marsh, bounded on the south with the river and the north with John Barnard.

3. 3. An acre in Pond Meadow, bounded on the east and north with John Page and the west with Isaac Stern.

4. Thirty acres of upland being a great dividend in the 2 Division of the 17 Lot.

5. Six acres of Plowland in the Hither Plaine and the 35 Lott.

6. Seven acres of Meddow in Remote Meddows and the 39 Lott.

7. Thirteen acres of upland beyond the further Plaine and the 59 Lott.

8. A Farm on One Hundred and seventeen acres of upland in the 2 Division."

In 1644 item 8 of the aqbove list was omitted from the new list.
Records of the Massachusetts Bay Company in New England say: "Mch. 1, 1630/31. Nch. Nicholas Knapp sold land and privileges in Watertown, Mass. Mch 6, 1646 and moved to Greenwich or Rye, perhaps stopping at Wethersfield and two years later moved to Stamford, Conn. But died at Fairfield. He owned a mill at Stamford as he gave to his son Caleb "land by the mill." One May 6, 1646 he sold to Byron Pendleton all his land, 8 lots, 16 acres granted to him by the Towne except one acre called the "Pond Meadow" which he sold the year before to Ed Garfield under the date of Sept 29, 1645, all at Watertown, Mass.

D-73....Hannah Knapp born 1720, Danbury. Married 14 Oct., 1740 to Thomas Benedict of Norwalk, Conn.

Two Samuel Knapps lived in Danbury at the same time. Both died in 1739. This makes the tracing of their life activities difficult and confusing.

C-13. The above Samuel was known as Lieut. Samuel. He was an Ensign in the Train Band in 1713. Lieut. In the Train Band and Representative in the Assembly in 1716-1721-1722. He was a weaver by occupation. Moved to Danbury before 1700, probably as early as 1685 as he was among the first eight families that settled there. The Allegheny County, PA. History, p. 785 says of Samuel Knapp: "Tradition says that he was commissioned by the King of England to locate and survey the Town of Danbury and settle thereon a certain number of families in a certain length of time, and if he did this, he was to have a certain tract of land for his services." This cannot be verified for the Danbury records were destroyed in the burning of Danbury by the British in 1777. Various accounts differ. He was in Danbury after 1691 and as early as 1697 and probably earlier, for thomas Lawrence of Stamford, in his will of July 26, 1691 calls him "son-in-law Samuel Knap." He was really his stepson and not his son-in-law. Perhaps he lived in Stamford at that time. See Fairfield Probate Records, Vol 1689-1701, page 172 says: "Samuel Knap of Danbury appeared in Court this 2 of Nov. and gave oath to the truth of the above inventory of the estate of Francis Bushnell of Danbury, deceased Oct. 1697." The Conn. General assembly held in New Haven confirmed him as Exsign of the Train Band in Oct. 1713. He was promoted to Lieut. In May 1716, by the General Assembly held at Hartford May 10, 1716 and May 11, 1721. Fairfield Probate Records, Vol 1724-1740, page 541, give the inventory of the Estate of Lieut. Samuel Knap of Danbury, April 4, 1740, John Knap administrator. The index gives his name as "Sr.". Francis Bushnell was one of the eight original settlers of Danbury as appears in the Norwalk Land Records, Vol. IV, page 438. "March 1, 1712 Samuel Knap, weaver, and Hannah Knap, his wife of Danbury, with 10 others, convey their interest in the land at Norwalk, as heirs of Francis Bushnell, deceased, of Danbury." (Land Records of Danbury and Norwalk, 1695-1697) Lieut. Samuel Knap settled in Danbury on the south side of South St.., at the foot of Main Street. In it were stored supplies for the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War, which was the cause of the British marching to Danbury to destroy these supplies."

The Episcopal Church, being the Church of England, was not burned. The house that stood on the original house lot of Lieut. Samuel Knap, was not burned by the British because Daniel Knap, son of Joshua Knap was there sick with smallpox which frightened the soldiers away. The house is standing now (1941) and is the second house east of the old mile stone which was erected by Major Taylor, in front of the tavern which he built in 1777 after the British burned Danbury. The tavern probably stood on land which was part of the original plot of Lieut. Samuel Knap. The old tavern was burned some 45 years ago. The mile stone reads "67 miles to H(artfort) 68 to N. Y." This stone was erected by Mr. M. Taylor in 1787. This stone was reset by the D. A. R. about 1902 and protected against damage. The old Knap house at 140 South St.., at the foot of Main St., Danbury , was built before the Revolution by Deacon Joshua Knap whose son Daniel was sick there with smallpox, and the house therefore escaped destruction, when Danbury was burned in Apr. 1777. The photograph published by Charles Ruggles Knapp as the "Knapp House" was really the tavern above described, built in 1777 replacing the house where Lieut. Samuel Knap lived. Deacon Joshua Knap was a son of Lieut. Samuel who was the first Knap to settle in Danbury. Danbury was settled in 1684/85. This "Knapp House" was unoccupied for several years before 1905 when in the spring it was resided, in front, some windows replaced by new ones, a porch added, a smaller chimney put in and the house painted. (It had never been painted before.) It was built by Deacon Joshua Knap in 1765 and has also been owned by Samuel Ward Benedict. Samuel Knap took the inventory of the estate of John Pickett of Danbury in 1712, and the same of Benjamin Hoyt in 1723 and distributed the estate in 1724. He took inventory of the estate of Dr. Thomas Dean, of Danbury, in 1730 and John Bolt of Norwalk in 1730. He, with John Hoyt and Israel Curtis, took the inventory of the estate of James Knap, of Danbury May 9, 1735. In the inventory of the estate of Capt. Josiah Starr, of Danbury, taken July 3, 1715/16 and in the History of Danbury, page 16, he is mentioned twice as having property at Pocono (now a part of Stoney Hill, Pocono lying both in Danbury and Bethel). One of these times it gives "Property at Pocono by Ensign Knap" which shows he had land there. H. B. Betts says it must have been before it was owned by Thomas Benedict, son of James. The will of Wakefield Dibble of Danbury, June 30, 1733/34 speaks also of property at Pocono between Danbury and Newton, probably included in land opposite Mrs. C. H. Brush's which she owned in 1905, and which was previously owned by Dibble. Danbury Probate Record gives inventory of the estate of Samuel Starr, dated April 6, 1745, which gives "five acres of land at Knaps bars, 5 pounds, 10 shillings." (Location not know now.) Norwalk Land Record, Vol VI, p 201 says: "Samuel Knap and Phoebe, his wife, of Danbury, released to James Lockwood, Jan 18, 1726, a parcel of land owned in common by Phoebe Knap and her sister Rebecca Lockwood and descended to them from their father, James Lockwood of Norwalk, deceased." (H. B. Betts not sure of this). General Assembly held in New Haven, Oct. 1713: "This Assembly do establish and confirm Mr. Samuel Knap to be Ensign of the Company or Train Band of said Town of Danbury." And at Hartford, May 1716: "This Assembly do establish and confirm Mr. Samuel Knap, of Danbury, to be Lieut. Of the Company or Train Band in the town of Danbury, aforesaid."

This house was unoccupied for several years until 1905. In the spring of 1905 it was re-sided in front, some windows replaced by new ones, a porch put on, a small chimney put in and the house was painted--it was never painted before. About 1921, the outside of the house was shingled.

Deacon Joshua Knapp was a son of Samuel Knapp, the first Knapp settler in Danbury who was there in 1702 and no doubt earlier, settling on land where this house now stands. Danbury was settled in 1684-85. See page 104--History of Danbury.

Chauncy Graham—record of marriages churches of Poughkeepsie and Rumbout.) Impressive services were conducted in the March Cemetery at Duryea, marking the dedication of the tablets placed by the Knapp Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on the graves of Zephaniah Knapp and his son, Joseph Knapp. The color bearers were Natalie Knapp Buttolph, of Pelham Manor, NY carrying the American flag. The Regent, Nellie Ruth Vidaver, of Pelham Manor, NY presiding, gave a brief history Of the organization of the hapter, stating that the "Knapp Chapter of the Daughters of The American Revolution" was organized 19 Feb.1927, to honor some 259 Knapps who fought in the Revolution. "Zephaniah and his son Joseph whom we are honoring today served during 1777 and 1778 in Samuel Watkins Co. of Col. James McClaughry's Regt." Said Mrs. Vidaver. "The Daughters of the Knapp Chapter deem it a privilege to place these markers on the graves of their ancestors." Mrs. Vidaver and Mrs. Nettie Bird Johler, co-organizer, placed upon the graves beautiful bouquets of flowers symbolizing the national colors. Mrs. Johler spoke briefly of the aims of the Chapter, stating: "We aim to locate the graves of one or more of our Revolutionary Knapps each year, that havae no marker, and to place a D.A.R. marker on their graves to help perpetuate the noble spirit of sacrifice, courage and loyalty which gave to our United States of America their independence and freedom from English tyranny. We regret that we have been unable to locate the grave of Zephaniah's three brothers, Elijah, Amos and Joseph, but we will persevere in our efforts until a Knapp Chapter marker is placed upon each of their graves. It is with a feeling of pride that we inform the descendants here assembled, that John Knap, father of Zephaniah and grandfather of Joseph, reared four sons who served in this war for independence, and displayed the same courage and fearlessness as did their father who lost his life in action on Lake Erie in the French and Indian War of 1758.

They are buried with Olive Maxwell Knapp at Conger Farm Cemetery or Maxwell Cemetery southwest of Norwalk, OH on SR 20, Then south on Hwy 61, then east on 162 to Walnut Road (about 1 ½ mile). This a Scout Camp. Visitors have to open a gate and go back a lane. Graves are at the top of the hill on the right. Graves are in bad condition.

Malinda Knapp would have been two years old (born 1863). Olive Maxwell Knapp (Malinda's mother) died January 9, 1865. John R. Knapp left Malinda with Grandmother Maxwell. Grandfather (Asa) Maxwell was already deceased (1864).

SIDE NOTE: A historian in Norwalk, OH told this story about Asa Maxwell. (The historian said he could not prove if it was true). Asa prior to his death requested the placing of a Spanish silver dollar beneath his head in the casket. The request was carried out, but someone became greedy and removed it from the casket. Shortly thereafter, the thief began to have the dishes rattle on the shelves, candles blowing out for no reason and other strange occurrences. He replaced the silver dollar and all was back to normal.

JOHN R. KNAPP left home at the age of 18 and settled in Ohio. He enlisted 9 Feb., 1865 in Co. G. 191st Reg't Vol. Capt. Kinney. He served until the end of the war. He was discharged 1865 at Winchester, Ohio. He bought the 80 acres where he now lives. He now owns 120 acres in Scipio Twp. Allen Co., IN

From the book "Valley of the Upper Maumee River," by Brant and Fuller, 1889 comes this information. John R. Knapp, a prominent farmer of Scipio Township, was born in Luzerne County, PA on May 9, 1839, son of Walter and Elizabeth (Reed) Knapp. The father was a native of Pennsylvania, the mother of New York. At eighteen years of age he left home and settled in Ohio ariving there with $1.50 in money. His parents being poor people, he was compelled to make his own way in the world when quite young. March 3, 1861 he was united in marriage with Olive Maxwell, by whom he had one child, Melinda, wife of Coe M. Smith. The wife was born April 21, 1844 and died January 7, 1865. In 1866 he was married to Thalia Boulton, born August 28, 1846 and they had nine children, of whom eight are now living: Joseph W., Walter R., Sarah E., Abbie S., John M., Frederick A., Ida M., and Thomas M. February 9, 1865 he enlisted in Company G, One Hundred and Ninety-first regiment Ohio Volunteers, under Capt. Kinney, and served to the close of the war, receiving an honorable discharge at Winchester, Ohio in 1865. Mr. Knapp began to support himself at an early age, his parent being poor, and his success in life is greatly to his credit. In 1865 he bought and settled on the eighty acres where he now lives, which was at that time densely timbered, which he has cleared and converted into a beautiful farm. He now owns 120 acres of good land in Scipio township, and is comfortably situated, having commodious and substantial buildings.

Malinda Knapp evidently remained with Grandmother Malinda Maxwell. 1870 census of Huron Co, Ohio list Malinda Knapp, age 7, in the Maxwell household. The 1880 Indiana census list Malinda Knapp, age 17, in household of John R. and Thalia Knapp. Malinda Maxwell died 1877. Estate sale of Malinda Maxwell shows Malinda Knapp purchasing several items. Sale was Sept. 17, 1877
